2025 Summer Reading Olympics

The Summer Reading Olympics is a new tradition for Stonehaven! Its purpose is to encourage students and families to read throughout the summer. All students must still complete their required reading as outlined on the Required Summer Reading document. If you choose to participate in the Summer Reading Olympics, try to read every day and record your progress on the attached log. Turn in your completed log (with parent signatures) when school resumes this fall to receive your medal and win points for your Stonehaven house!

Guidelines:

- Family read-alouds are encouraged! Books read aloud count for all participating listeners.
- Parents are expected to be more active in reading books aloud to rising K-1st grade.
- Required Summer Reading books count toward book/page totals.
- The Stonehaven Loves Books list is a resource with great book suggestions. Many of these books are in our school library and may be checked out during our summer hours.
- Graphic novels/comics and books far below your child's reading level do not count toward page/book totals (eg., 5th graders should not count easy readers or picture books). Please read these books for the joy of reading, but don't add them to your log.
- Avoid reading books that are taught in class. Reference the In-Class Book List included in the 2025 Required Summer Reading document to see these titles.
- Medals will be awarded based on the tiers below. Medals also earn house points!
